

claimed in one application." In the instant case the Examiner is alleging that the inventions of groups one and two are distinct, although absolutely no showing of such distinctness has been made other than the unsupported allegations set forth in the office action.

The Examiner's attention is directed to 37 C.F.R. 1.141(b) where allegedly different classes of inventions may be included and examined in a single application provided they are so linked as to form a single inventive concept. Please note that claims for a product are specifically authorized for examination together with claims for one process specially adapted for the use of that product. This is exactly the type of case for which the rule was promulgated, i.e., to avoid burdensome and unnecessary restrictions. It is also asserted that the requirement to restrict the present application would be an unnecessary burden upon the Applicants and the Examiner's failure to follow the mandates of the statute and regulation would be a denial of due process. In addition since the article and method claims of Groups II through Group V contain all of the limitations of the article claims, these should be rejoined under In Re Ochiai 37 USPQ2d 1127 and In re Brouwer 37 USPQ 1663.

Once the composition, film and article claims of Group I are found to be patentable, the article and method claims of Groups II through Group V must be per se patentable. For these reasons it is respectfully urged that the restriction requirement be rescinded.

The examiner has rejected claims 1-8, 11-16, 18 and 24-26 under 35 U.S.C. 103 over Akkapeddi, et al, U.S. 6,410,156 in view of Speer, et al., U.S. 5,700,554. It is respectfully asserted that this ground of rejection has been overcome by the instant response. The examiner is advised that this application was filed after November 29, 1999 and both this application and the Akkapeddi, et al reference 6,410,156 were owned by the same person at the time the invention was made, namely Honeywell International Inc. As evidence thereof, enclosed for the convenience of the examiner are copies of the recorded assignments for this application as well as for U.S. 6,410,156 (s/n 09/800,218). It is therefore submitted that U.S. 6,410,156 is not available as prior art and this rejection cannot be maintained.

The examiner has rejected claim 9 under 35 U.S.C. 103 over Akkapeddi, et al, U.S. 6,410,156 in view of Speer, et al., U.S. 5,700,554 and further in view of Speer, et al, U.S. 5,942,297. It is respectfully asserted that this ground of rejection has been overcome by the instant response. For the same reason as above, this application was filed after November 29, 1999 and both this application and the Akkapeddi, et al reference 6,410,156 were owned by the same person at the time the invention was made, namely Honeywell International Inc. It is therefore submitted that U.S. 6,410,156 is not available as prior art and this rejection cannot be maintained.

The examiner has rejected claim 10 under 35 U.S.C. 103 over Akkapeddi, et al, U.S. 6,410,156 in view of Speer, et al., U.S. 5,700,554 and further in view of Chuu, et al, U.S. 5,605,996. It is respectfully asserted that this ground of rejection has been overcome by the instant response. For the same reason as above, this application was filed after November 29, 1999 and both this application and the Akkapeddi, et al reference 6,410,156 were owned by the same person at the time the invention was made, namely Honeywell International Inc. It is therefore submitted that U.S. 6,410,156 is not available as prior art and this rejection cannot be maintained.

The examiner has rejected claim 17 under 35 U.S.C. 103 over Akkapeddi, et al, U.S. 6,410,156 in view of Speer, et al., U.S. 5,700,554 and further in view of Farrell, et al, U.S. 4,464,443. It is respectfully asserted that this ground of rejection has been overcome by the instant response. For the same reason as above, this application was filed after November 29, 1999 and both this application and the Akkapeddi, et al reference 6,410,156 were owned by the same person at the time the invention was made, namely Honeywell International Inc. It is therefore submitted that U.S. 6,410,156 is not available as prior art and this rejection cannot be maintained.

The undersigned respectfully requests re-examination of this application and believes it is now in condition for allowance. Such action is requested. If the examiner believes there is any matter which prevents allowance of the present application, it is requested that the undersigned be contacted to arrange for an interview which may expedite prosecution.

Respectfully submitted,
